HEAVY TRACK THE KEY FOR CONNORS

Wise Men Say is a leading prospect for tomorrow's Grant Plumbing Wellington Steeplechase

Wanganui trainer and dairy farmer Raymond Connors is taking two jumpers to Trentham tomorrow and while he has high expectations for one he is hoping to answer some questions with the other.

He will line-up talented jumper Wise Men Say (NZ) (Yamanin Vital) in the Premier Grant Plumbing Wellington Steeplechase over 5500 metres and rates the hardened stayer his best chance of the day.

"Being over the ultimate distance on Saturday definitely brings him into it," Connors said.

"Hopefully the heavy track will slow them up a bit so he can cruise along where he's not so much off the bit."

The Yamanin Vital gelding has had a solid preparation this time in with two wins and a placing from three starts.

Connors is hoping to continue that form into Saturday's race and improve on last year's fourth. However, he does have a slight concern in the seven-year-old's tendency to give the field a lead before closing late.

"I think he's racing a lot better this year so I'm going in with more confidence than last year," he said.

"He'll be in with a strong chance if he just doesn't get that far back. That is the biggest worry."

Meanwhile, Connors is hoping his other runner Max (NZ)

(Gallant Guru) will answer some questions when he lines up earlier in the day in the Premier Anuka Smoker Wellington Hurdles over 3400 metres.

“There are some handy horses in the field,” he said. “I think the wet track will help him, but whether he has the speed to keep up with them is a question. I think we’ll learn a lot on Saturday.”

Although there is some concern heading into the race, Connors is taking a lot of confidence out of Max’s placing on the flat over 2100m at Awapuni last Saturday.

The Gallant Guru gelding trailed the field by several lengths throughout the race before storming home late to run third.

“It gave me a bit more confidence about heading to Trentham after that run,” he said. “It shows he is in good spirits for it, but whether he’s up to the open hurdle or whether he is more of a steeplechaser we will just have to see.”

If Max performs well on Saturday, Connors said he would likely travel north to tackle the Schweppes Great Northern Hurdles at Ellerslie on September 9.

He would travel with stablemate Wise Men Say who will target the Pakuranga Hunt Cup at Ellerslie next month before having a shot at redemption in the Meadow Fresh Great Northern Steeplechase after falling in the race last year.

FLEMINGTON GOAL FOR LEADING KIWI COLT

Top New Zealand colt Summer Passage (Snitzel) is making excellent progress toward a second trip across the Tasman.

The Hong Kong-owned son of Snitzel has been back in work with trainers Lance O’Sullivan and Andrew Scott since early May with plans for an early departure to Melbourne.

“We honestly couldn’t be happier with the horse,” O’Sullivan said. “He’s good in the coat and condition-wise as well, he’s looking great.”

Summer Passage, who travelled to Sydney in the autumn off the back of his Gr.1 Sistema Stakes victory at Ellerslie to finish runner-up in the Gr.1 Sires’ Produce Stakes at Randwick, is unlikely to make a public domestic appearance before he heads to Australia.

“He’s not that far off trialling and, at this stage, that’s likely to be at Flemington on August 27,” O’Sullivan said.

“Our preference is to go early and get him on the good tracks as soon as possible.”

Summer Passage is pencilled in to resume in the Gr.2 Danehill Stakes, a race won last year by the Murray Baker and Andrew Forsman-trained Saracino (NZ) (Per Incanto), over 1200 metres on September 16.

“Our main aim will be the Gr.1 Coolmore Stud Stakes so we want him to have some practice down the straight at Flemington before that,” O’Sullivan said.

The 1200 metre event has historically launched a number of successful stud careers, including in more recent years Northern Meteor (Encosta De Lago), Sepoy (Elusive Quality), Zoustar (Northern Meteor) and Brazen Beau (I Am Invincible) and Summer Passage’s connections are hoping his name will be added to that list.

“He’s a New Zealand stallion at the moment and I guess the next step is to make him a serious Australian stallion,” O’Sullivan said.

My Diamantine (NZ) (Eighth Wonder)

NZ mare steps up in QLD Cup

The Queensland Winter Racing Carnival hosts its final black-type race day at the Sunshine Coast on Saturday with the Listed Queensland Cup (3200m) attracting a field of 16.

Drawn the outside barrier is the Brian Smith-trained mare My Diamantine (NZ) (Eighth Wonder) who will carry 54.5kg.

Jeff Lloyd rides the six-year-old in her 54th career run after being aboard for her eye-catching lead-up when second in the Caloundra Cup a fortnight ago.

The test for My Diamantine will be the 3200m as she hasn't won over further than 2000m during her career.

My Diamantine was trained to five wins in New Zealand by owner-breeder John Wheeler before she transferred to Smith's care in the middle of 2016.

At the opposite end of the barrier draw is the Richard Laming-trained Shez Ekstraordinary (NZ) (Ekraar) who will jump from barrier one with 54kg and Robbie Fradd aboard.

Marenostro (NZ) (Duelled)

Marenostro looking for redemption

Stakes winner Marenostro (NZ) (Duelled) will be looking to recapture some form when he competes in the Listed Winter Stakes (1400m) at Rosehill Gardens tomorrow.

The Chris Waller-trained gelding ran fourth in the race last year to Oxford Poet (Dylan Thomas), but was able to get his revenge a fortnight later when victorious in the Listed Winter Challenge over 1500m.

Marenostro will be looking to build on his last start fifth to Sound Proposition (NZ) (Savabeel) over a mile and his trial win over 1200m at Warwick Farm last month.

The six-year-old has drawn barrier four and will be ridden by Tommy Berry, who is currently fifth in the Sydney Jockeys Premiership.

A New Zealand Bloodstock sale graduate, Marenostro was purchased out of Dormello Stud's 2011 weanling sale draft by Cambridge bloodstock agent Phill Cataldo for $20,000.

Go Go Gonzo (NZ) (Golan)

Cameron's team making most of southern opportunities

Sean Cameron is a realist and giving his horses the best possible winning chances means travelling far and wide.

To that end, the Waiuku trainer is currently campaigning a team in the South Island and following a winning treble at Ashburton last week he is chasing further success at Phar Lap Raceway today.

"I did have them based at Invercargill and we're now at Riccarton," Cameron said.

"Most of my horses have been tried by other people and they are leased or given to me to bring down here. It's about placing them right and the money is much the same here." Full story here.

Traders out to make mincemeat of Caulfield rivals

A bit of ringcraft gained in Adelaide could help Meat Traders (NZ) (Pins) step up to Melbourne city class in Saturday's Laming Racing Handicap (2000m) at Caulfield.

Meat Traders, so named because of the involvement of most of his owners in the meat industry, was a dominant first-up winner over 1400m at Sale on June 18 before the Peter Gelagotis stable stepped him up to 1800m at Morphettville on July 1.

Meat Traders hit the front in the straight before going down narrowly at Morphettville but the son of Pins thrilled the stable with his effort.

Meat Traders rises to 2000m for his sixth start with the staying prospect pleasing connections with his progress since his Adelaide run.

"Melbourne is another step in grade but now he's had that 1800m run and he's a bit more seasoned, we're hoping he'll measure up. Where he sits, we'll find out Saturday," Gelagotis said.

"Is he ready? He's drawn perfectly, he'll get a good run and I think he'll run to his best on Saturday."

Anthony Darmanin has ridden Meat Traders in all his runs and will be aboard again.

I Boogi (NZ) (Iffraaj)

Kiwi-bred has trainers celebrating

A New Zealand-bred four-year-old has given a new training partnership their first Australian winner.

Iffraaj's son I Boogi (NZ) got the father and son team of Russell and Scott Cameron off the mark when he was successful at Sandown on Wednesday.

"To get my first winner in town is a good thrill," the Flemington-based Scott Cameron said.

"I've ridden work since I was 14 for Dad and I always thought this was the way I was going to go."

Russell Cameron, who has prepared five individual Group One winners, trained in New Zealand from 2004 until 2008 and prepared 72 winners, the majority of them in partnership with Gareth McRae at Pukekohe before he returned to his native Australia.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Memorable victory for Kiwi trainer

The first New Zealander to gain a trainer's licence in South Korea has quickly made his presence felt.

David Miller established his operation in the spring and last weekend he produced I'm Your Father, an American-bred son of Tiznow, to win the prestigious Busan Mayor's Cup over 1800 metres.

A former jumps jockey, the 54-year-old is vastly experienced and South Korea is the 11th country he has worked in within the thoroughbred industry.

Miller is based at the Busan course, where he has 24 boxes, and opened his yard following a training stint in Malaysia.

along and realistically he could be back in work after Christmas."

Jacksstar won the Gr.3 Manawatu Cup during his last preparation and also placed in the Gr.2 Wellington Cup and the Listed Marton Cup before his brave effort at Ellerslie in the autumn.

Kawi (NZ) (Savabeel)

Sharrock chasing history with Kawi

A slice of New Zealand racing history beckons Kawi (NZ) (Savabeel) in the new season.

The son of Savabeel's tally at the highest level currently stands at six and trainer Allan Sharrock is on a mission to advance that record in the 2017-18 term.

"Mufhasa won eight Group One races here and Seachange won seven," he said.

"I know Mufhasa won another two in Australia, but to emulate his record here is something I would love to do."

Kawi, who is currently tied on six of the best with Mr Tiz (Bletchingly) and Sir Slick (NZ) (Volksraad), will have early opportunities to move on to even terms with the former two-time Horse of the Year at the Hawke's Bay carnival. Full story here.

Savile Row (NZ) (Makfi)

Gifted colt on mission possible in Melbourne

Multiple Group One performer Savile Row (NZ) (Makfi) has left home in search of a breakthrough top-flight victory that will complete his stallion CV.

The rising four-year-old has finished runner-up three times at the top level from the Matamata stable of Michael Moroney and Pam Gerard, with the former to now guide the colt's future from his Flemington operation.

"Savile Row left for Melbourne Wednesday morning," said Jonathan Scully, racing manager for breeder-owner Kevin Hickman. "He's done four or five weeks work here and we've mixed it up." Full story here.

Sydney possible for high-flying son of Tavistock

A trip to Australia remains in the mix for a New Zealand Group performer who has been the target of massive overseas interest.

Trainer Peter Lock said Hiflyer's (NZ) (Tavistock) upcoming programme has yet to be confirmed, but Sydney was an attractive option for the son of Tavistock.

"We were looking at going to the Foxbridge Plate and then the first day of the Hastings carnival, but they are probably

Art Deco (NZ) (Road To Rock)

Stable confidence boosted

Allan Sharrock's confidence in Art Deco's (NZ) (Road To Rock) upcoming stakes prospects have been further boosted.

The Taranaki trainer was delighted with the Road To Rock's mare's effort to finish runner-up in a 1000 metre trial at Waverley on Tuesday.

"She just went super. We're looking forward to the Opunake Cup, that has always been her main aim, and then she'll go to the Merial Mile at Awapuni," he said.

Art Deco has impressively made her way through the grades with five wins and nine placings from her 14 appearances.

Kiwi excels in Ireland

Once again a New Zealand student has excelled at the Irish National Stud Thoroughbred Breeders Course.

For the past six months Cameron Ring has been studying in Ireland and last week he graduated from the Diploma course with honours. He travelled to Ireland to study as a recipient of the New Zealand Thoroughbred Breeders Association (NZTBA) Keith and Faith Taylor Equine Scholarship sponsored by the Taylor Family.

According to Sally Carrol of the Irish National Stud, Cameron had a fine work ethic and gave 100 per cent to all aspects of the course.

"Cameron was a fantastic ambassador for New Zealand and the NZTBA and he created a very good impression with all our staff, guest lecturers and on our visits to various equine establishments," she said.

"He was a team player, totally reliable and carried out all tasks, assignments, visits with enthusiasm and attention to detail."

Ring will shortly return to New Zealand where he will join the staff at the Taylor Family's Trelawney Stud to put his diploma to good use.

The Keith and Faith Taylor Scholarship is just one of two scholarships available through the NZTBA with the other being the Sunline International Management Scholarship. Applications for both scholarships close in early October. For further information on these scholarships contact the NZTBA or visit their website:

Chocante (NZ) (Shocking)

Sydney first stop for Chocante

Chocante (NZ) (Shocking) will race exclusively on Australian soil in his bid for Gr.1 Melbourne Cup glory.

Trainer Stephen Marsh has confirmed that the son of Shocking will be sent across the Tasman for the opening three runs of his preparation.

"He could have a trial here, but Sydney will tell us where he is at and the tracks there are more likely to offer the sting out of them," he said.

"We would be worried about giving him too many starts on firm ground." Full story here

Coolibah (NZ) (Istidaad)

Overseas option for jumper

A Victorian campaign hasn't been ruled out for the unbeaten hurdler Coolibah (NZ) (Istidaad).

The seven-year-old's owner-trainer Lesley Munro said she had discussed the possibility with Cambridge horsewoman Shelley Houston, who has enjoyed success in Victoria in recent seasons with her jumper Lucky Tonight.

"He would be ideally suited to steeplechasing in Australia and that's still a possibility," Munro said. Full story here.

Hermanito (NZ) (Shocking)

Trainer hot on Hermanito's future prospects

New Plymouth trainer Janelle Millar believes lightning has struck twice in an Australian black type winner's family.

She has a brother to the Gr.2 Brisbane Cup winner Chocante (NZ) (Shocking) in her care and has growing confidence in Hermanito's (NZ) longer-term prospects of emulating his sibling's efforts.

The Shocking three-year-old was an impressive debut winner at Wanganui last month with an effort that has attracted interest. Full story here

What's The Story (NZ) (Savabeel)

Marsh taking it slowly with Group One galloper

What's The Story's (NZ) (Savabeel) new trainer has high hopes of a successful return to racing from the Group One performer.

The son of Savabeel is now with Cambridge horseman Stephen Marsh after doing his previous racing from Stephen McKee's Ardmore stable.

What's The Story was narrowly beaten in last year's Gr.1 New Zealand Derby and then finished sixth in the Gr.1 Australian Derby before he was turned out. He then suffered an injury when he finished fifth when resuming in the spring at Ruakaka. Full story here

Hastings option for smart filly

Stephen Marsh is considering an early black type test in the new season for his unbeaten youngster Shadow Dancer (NZ) (Snitzel).

The Cambridge trainer has a good opinion of the Snitzel filly, who was successful in her only juvenile appearance at Rotorua.

Marsh won both the three-year-old set weights and penalties event and the Gr.3 Hawke's Bay Breeders' Gold Trail Stakes with Serious Satire (More Than Ready) at last year's Hastings carnival and Shadow Dancer may follow her lead.

"We will possibly look at both races again, she's a nice filly," he said.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Bambry raises bar for 3YO

Tony Bambry has his eye on a tidy prize for Blondign (NZ) (Align) later this month.

"There's a three-year-old race at New Plymouth worth $40,000 so we might as well have a crack there," the Awapuni horseman said.

Bambry produced Blondign to break her maiden on her home track in Saturday's Manawatu Office Products 3YO off the back of three consecutive runner-up finishes.

"The form around her has been good – she got beaten by Starossa, who goes pretty well, and then by Manhattan Flame, who subsequently won again so we were expecting a really bold showing," Bambry said.

Best yet to come from Eminent

Martyn Meade's confidence in the New Zealand-owned Frankel colt Eminent hasn't been dented by his latest defeat.

He remained unbeaten despite Sir Peter Vela's three-year-old finishing fifth last time out in the Gr.1 Eclipse Stakes.

"He seems all right. He's got a couple of puncture wounds on a hind leg and he's a little bit stiff, but it's nothing very serious and we live to fight another day," Meade said.

"It was obviously quite a rough race and, in hindsight, maybe the ground was a little bit too quick for him. He was very keen and didn't really let himself down on the ground.

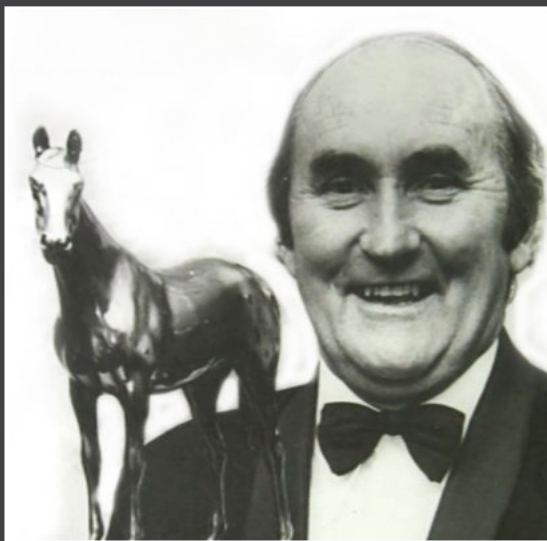

"I've said all along he'll be better next year. I think he'll be a brilliant four-year-old."

NEW ZEALAND RACING
HALL OF FAME

Rex Cochrane- Southland's quiet achiever.

From his base in Gore, Rex Cochrane became the first New Zealander to train 1000 winners.

Remembering our Hall Of Fame Heroes

Versatile Cogitation, in the 1957 Grand National Steeplechase, was his first winner on his own account and Palimony, ridden by Jim Collett in July 1980, was his 1000th.

Cochrane retired with a tally of 1520 wins citing Game Call and Enceeh (and Cogitation) his best jumpers; Court Belle, Castle Flight and Yipp's Secret among his best on the flat.

Rex was also known as an excellent mentor of apprentices with Jim Collett, Steve Allen, and Tony Robb just some of those who capitalised on their association with the Cochrane stable.
