MR KNOWITALL HAS ALL THE ANSWERS AT ELLERSLIE

Zy Nor Azman has Mr Knowitall in front as they approach the winning post at Ellerslie

Co-trainer Margaret Carter had two simple instructions for apprentice Zy Nor Azman when discussing tactics for stable representative Mr Knowitall (NZ) (Civics) ahead of the fourth race at Ellerslie on Saturday.

"I simply said to him to let the horse do his own thing and make sure he has a clear run when you ask him for his final effort," she explained after the nuggety Civics gelding claimed his eight career success for Carter and her husband Tim who prepare him from their Cambridge base.

"He's very well named this horse as he does think he knows everything and will do exactly what he wants despite what the jockey might think is the plan.

"He races best when you just let him settle and have him nice and happy bowling along at his own speed. Zy did everything I asked of him and thankfully the horse did the rest."

A determined finish for third at his previous run hinted at a return to the winner's circle for the gelding who was also suited by the lack of numbers in Saturday's contest as he faced just five rivals in the rating 85 event.

“The small field suited him as he didn’t get too far off them which is an issue when he races in bigger fields,” noted Carter.

“The three kilogram claim also played into our hands as he’s not very big and can’t really carry the bigger weights.

“His work following the Te Rapa race was very good so it was nice he could deliver on that.”

The win provided some consolation for the Carter’s after stable star Battle Time (NZ) (Battle Paint) had to settle for second behind Fire Jet (NZ) (Tavistock) in the previous event after finding trouble in the run home.

“He just didn’t get much of a go at them in the straight and was steaming home that last bit so I guess you could say he was unlucky,” said Carter.

“Mind you it was a very good ride on the winner as he kept us in the pocket and we just couldn’t get going until it was too late.”

Both Battle Time and Mr Knowitall will now head to the Tauranga meeting on the 25th of June for their next assignments.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Provocative not a certain Oaks runner

New Zealand filly Provocative (NZ) (Zabeel) is guaranteed a start in the rescheduled Queensland Oaks but could instead run in the Derby on the same day.

Tony Pike-trained Provocative was promoted into the Oaks field as the first emergency with the scratching of Beluga Blue (Lookin At Lucky).

After the wash-out of the Eagle Farm meeting on Saturday and the transfer of the Oaks to a week later, scratchings have been reinstated. But Beluga Blue has been treated for a leg injury and will not take her place.

“The Oaks and the Derby will be on the same day so I’ll have a chat with the owners about which way we go,” said trainer Tony Pike.

“There’s a bit of water to go under the bridge yet and she’ll have a gallop on Tuesday and we’ll make a decision after that.

WINNING ROLL CONTINUES FOR STORMING THE TOWER

Underrated stayer Storming The Tower (NZ) (Storm Creek) continued on his winning way at Ellerslie on the weekend as he captured the time-honoured Cornwall Handicap with a dominant front-running performance.

Fresh off the back of success in the Gr. 3 Rotorua Cup at his last start, the John Bell trained galloper had to lump the topweight of 60 kilograms in Saturday's contest and did so in fine style for rider Samantha Collett who was having her first ride on the Storm Creek gelding.

Bell believes his charge has finally come of age with three wins in his last five starts ending a winless drought that stretched back to December 2012.

"He's always been a handy galloper but he seems to have finally hit his straps in this campaign," he said.

"He goes on most track conditions and I was feeling pretty confident when I heard the others saying they wanted a bit more rain for Saturday as I knew he would like what was on offer.

"I told Sam when I legged her up to have him handy as I didn't want him to be chasing with such a big weight although I was a little surprised when she took him to the front. She is a top rider and had watched his tapes so she knew what he was capable of and did a super job on him."

Collett used her initiative as she took up the running and dictated to her rivals throughout the 2200 metre contest before proving too tough in a decent home straight scrap with Celebrity Miss (NZ) (Civics).

Bell was delighted with the win although disappointed that a race that was once one of the pinnacle winter staying events was now languishing without black-type status.

"It's a shame to see the Cornwall now just another open handicap when it used to be one of the biggest events on the winter calendar," he said.

"This was always a race that everybody who had a good winter stayer wanted to win so it would be nice if it could somehow get back to that status one day."

Storming The Tower will now be set for the Kiwifruit Cup (2100m) at Tauranga on the 25th of June.

LONGCHAMP IMPRESSES AT WANGANUI

Injury plagued sprinter Longchamp (NZ) (Tavistock) showed what he is capable of when fully fit as he produced a dominant performance to score handsomely over 1200 metres at Wanganui on the weekend.

Placed at Group Two level as a three-year-old when third to Turn Me Loose (NZ) (Iffraaj) in the Hawkes Bay Guineas, the now four-year-old Tavistock gelding has been beset by niggling knee problems that have seen him spend considerable time on the sidelines.

Although trainer Andrew Campbell rates him as a day-to-day proposition, he does believe there is a feature race win in the gelding's future.

"He has plenty of ability and it's just a shame he has had his problems along the way as I really do rate him," he noted.

"He's a very handy sprinter who I think can get up to a mile later on but it will all depend on how we can manage him to get the best from him."

Campbell went into Saturday's rating 75 contest with plenty of confidence although that was dented early on in the piece when his charge was well back in the early running.

"I wanted him to get handy early on as they weren't winning from the back so when he was seven or eight lengths from the leaders as they came to the turn I was a little concerned," he said.

"All credit to young Tim Johnson though as he didn't panic and got him into a challenging position up the fence and the horse did the rest.

"He even pricked his ears about 100 metres off the post so he did it well in what was a pretty good field."

Campbell will now sit down with longtime stable client Tommy Heptinstall, who shares in the ownership of the gelding with a large group of friends, and discuss the possible winter options for their $40,000 purchase from Cambridge Stud's 2013 Karaka Yearling Sale draft.

"Tommy and I will have a chat about where we should go although you won't see him again for a month as we have to space his races like that to ease the pressure on his knees," he said.

"If he could win his next start then a race like the Winter Cup at Riccarton would have to be on our radar as I think he's good enough to compete at that level."

Campbell also confirmed that stablemate Francome (NZ) (Savabeel) would now head to the spelling paddock after finishing well back in the last race of the day when failing to cope with the heavy track.

AUTRIDGE CONFIDENT AHEAD OF MCGREGOR GRANT TILT

A pleasing trial over the demanding Ellerslie steeplechase circuit on Tuesday has co-trainer Stephen Autridge confident his charge Brer (NZ) (China Cat) will be well suited when he tackles the time-honoured McGregor Grant Steeplechase at the venue on Monday

The Electrolux sponsored prestige jumping event is the feature attraction at Ellerslie's traditional Queen's Birthday Monday raceday with Autridge keen to see his promising chaser go one better after finishing second in the Waikato Steeplechase at his last start.

"He hasn't been over the Ellerslie hill before so until you do under race conditions you don't really know how they will handle it but he did jump very nicely there on Tuesday," he said.

Autridge and training partner Jamie Richards brought Brer up to Ellerslie last week to participate in the open school organised by the Auckland Racing Club and left well pleased with his effort.

"He jumped beautifully and loved the live fences so we were very pleased with him," he noted.

"They went about a lap and a half and only once over the hill but he just jogged along and measured his fences nicely.

"He has come on after his run at Te Rapa and I think we've just about got him spot on for the race. Like I said you don't know how they will ultimately perform until they've tackled the hill but we're very happy going into the race."

Autridge was also quick to note that Brer wouldn't have to battle his eventual conqueror at Te Rapa with Sea King (NZ) (Shinko King) set to contest the other major jumping event on the day, the K S Browne Hurdle.

The Kevin Myers trained Sea King will be looking to go two better than last year where he finished third to Thenamesbond (NZ) (China Cat) and Wee Biskit (NZ) (Zed) who will both be amongst his opposition again on Monday.

Where Winning Begins

NOVA WARRIOR MAKES SHORT WORK OF CLASSY FIELD

Ability was something that Nova Warrior (NZ) (Bachelor Duke) was always known to have in abundance, but the way he spread-eagled supposedly tougher rivals when brought back to turf racing on Sunday has suddenly cast him in a new light.

From 14 previous starts, the Bachelor Duke four-year-old, who is widely recognised more as a Polytrack expert, had run on turf only twice, and scored once (over 1200m) for his only success on that surface from his tally of six wins.

But trainer Alwin Tan never ruled out a return to the grass for the Nova Racing Stable-owned galloper, especially if he was well in on weights.

And that was the case in Sunday's $125,000 The British Club Gallop 2016, a Kranji Stakes A race over 1200m when he was weighted at only 52kgs. In the end he won like he was in a class of his own.

Tan said Nova Warrior has always shown a big heart, but he actually never really knew how big until Sunday, even if he concedes the light weight did give him wings.

"The light weight helped, but he's always been a nice horse with a big heart," said the Singaporean handler.

"We were a bit concerned he was running back-to-back this week, but when we checked on the weight he got, we thought it was a race worth going for. He was fit to race, anyway.

"It was also quite a tough field, but he showed today he could challenge the upper class very well.

Nova Warrior makes light work of his rivals at Kranji

"I don't think I will test him beyond 1200m, though. 1400m is his max as I'm a bit worried about his stamina."

Nova Warrior has now taken his handy record to seven wins and three placings from 15 starts for stakes earnings in excess of $330,000 for the Nova Racing Stable.

A FIFTH ONE FOR THE ROAD

Trainer Shane Baertschiger's promising Polytrack sprinter Lincoln Road (NZ) (Swiss Ace) kept his unblemished record going when he recorded his fifth win in a row on Sunday, even if it was tougher than expected.

Caught three to four wide for most of the way and over-racing a touch, the Swiss Ace four-year-old still cornered like he was jogging and poised to blitz his 11 rivals with regular partner John Powell having a lapful of horse.

But David Hill's Secret Mission (Easing Along) proved to be a thorn in his side when he came back with a second wind at the 200m. For a second, it looked like he would succeed in ending Lincoln's Road's perfect run, but in the last couple of hops, Lincoln Road was able to preserve a neck advantage on the line.

Backed down to solid $8 favouritism, Lincoln Road never really gave Baertschiger or Powell any anxious moments though he was caught on a limb in the early stages of the race, but did give them some doubts when Secret Mission rallied again on the rails.

"He was three to four deep and over-racing but that was because JP was trying to ease him back," said Baertschiger.

"The other horse had a fight in him, but he had only 52.5kgs while mine had 57kgs, but I couldn't be happier with that run. He's won five from five and he's done a great job.

"I think he's come on since we put the blinkers on him. We've thrown him in at the deep end and he's answered the question every time.

"He's a bit quirky around the stable but he is really switched on on raceday. I have spotted a Kranji Stakes A race over 1100m for him in three weeks' time.

"I will keep him on Polytrack for now, but I have no reason not to believe he can't go over 1200m one day. It's only because there were no 1200m race on the programme for him."

With that fifth successive win, Lincoln Road has now amassed more than $175,000 in stakes earnings for his connections.
