KIWI TRIFECTA OF OWNER, TRAINER & JOCKEY SHARE SHILLELAGH'S WIN

In the colours of prominent Hunterville owner Christopher Grace and his wife Susanna, Shillelagh gets the better of her stablemate Tom Melbourne close to home in yesterday's million dollar Kennedy Mile at Flemington.

A trip to Sydney to ride in a Group One race for high-profile owner Lloyd Williams has paved the way for expat-Kiwi jockey Michael Dee's second success at the highest level.

Dee was legged aboard Shillelagh (NZ) (Savabeel), one of six Chris Waller-trained runners in yesterday's Group One Kennedy Mile at Flemington, giving the master trainer a quinella in the race.

Waller remembered when Dee rode Foundry (Galileo) to victory in the Group One Metropolitan at Randwick in September.

"I saw him standing there before the race with hardly anyone around, which is a bit different for Team Williams," Waller said.

"I went up to him and wished him good luck so I remembered him from that day.

"I thought if he's good enough to ride for Lloyd Williams then he's good enough for me."

Sent off a $12 chance, Shillelagh scored a short-neck victory over $5.50 second favourite Tom Melbourne (Dylan Thomas) with ex-Ruakaka four-year-old Wyndspelle (Iffraaj), winner of the Group Two Waikato Guineas earlier this year, 2¾ lengths away third.

Waller, who began his training career not too far from owner Christopher Grace's hometown in the central districts of New Zealand, said Shillelagh came in with fresh legs, having had only two runs leading in "A lot of these horses have had long campaigns and getting the positive feedback from Joao Moreira last time gave us some confidence to run her in one of these Group One races today," Waller said.

"She'll come back in the autumn as she likes good tracks."

Shillelagh began her racing career in New Zealand from the Te Akau stables at Matamata, winning her first three starts and winding up in June of last year with a four-from-six record. Twice a winner for Waller in Australia before yesterday, she was originally aimed at the Group One Myer Classic but didn't gain a start.

Dee said yesterday's victory was only his third ride for Waller.

"It feels great, I just can't believe it," he said. "I was very lucky to pick up the ride for Mr Waller and the team.

"With only 52 kilograms on her back, never once in the race did I think she was going to get beat.

"She just tugged me everywhere I wanted to go; she was too good."

ANOTHER STAR FILLY PEAKS FOR SARGE

John Sargent has another Oaks in his sights after Luvaluva (NZ) (Mastercraftsman) gave the ex-Matamata trainer his third Wakeful Stakes win in five years.

Sargent won the Group Two Flemington feature in 2013 with Kirramosa (NZ) (Alamosa), five days before that filly won the VRC Oaks. He added another Wakeful a year later with Thunder Lady (NZ) (Mastercraftsman), who then finished second in the Oaks.

Thunder Lady was ridden to her Wakeful win by Blake Shinn who was also aboard Luvaluva in yesterday's race and earned high praise when steering the filly to a last-to-first victory.

"Blake's on fire at the moment," Sargent said. "I said we'd probably have to go back and I just left it to him.

"That's how he rides and he rode Thunder Lady to win the race very similarly to this.

"He got back and weaved through the field and it will give the filly a bit of confidence. She hasn't been this way around. It's all good for Thursday, hopefully."

Well supported as a $5 second favourite, Luvaluva saved ground on the inside before bursting through and got home in the final strides to beat outsider Glam Guru (Medaglia d'Oro) by a head with a nose to $8 third favourite Rimraam (NZ) (Commands) third.

As the best stayers do, Luvaluva stretches her neck nearing the winning post to touch off Glam Guru and Rimraam in the Wakeful Stakes.

Luvaluva has firmed from $11 to $6 for Thursday's 2500 metre Group One Oaks, with Group One Thousand Guineas winner Aloisia (NZ) (Azamour) the $1.70 favourite.

Sargent said Luvaluva was a big, strong filly and the Sydney-based trainer believes she is more of a staying type than his previous winners.

"She's shown it from the first trial I gave her as a two-year-old. We put her aside and aimed her for these two races this week," he said.

Along with a VRC Oaks win, Sargent has also won a Group One Queensland Oaks with Quintessential (NZ) (Fast 'N' Famous) in 2012 and the 2015 Group One ATC Oaks in Sydney with Gust Of Wind (NZ) (Darci Brahma), the last horse to have beaten champion Winx (Street Cry).

"He's been renowned for getting these three-year-old fillies to peak for these Oaks distances and on Oaks day," Shinn said.

GAI TRUSTS KIWI TO STEM EURO TIDE

Gai Waterhouse will have a runner she believes can stem the European tide in the Melbourne Cup with Cismontane (NZ) (High Chaparral) sealing his place with victory in yesterday's Group Three Lexus Stakes at Flemington.

The 2500 metre Lexus, three days before the Cup, is the last chance to earn a guaranteed berth and Cismontane's staying credentials were truly tested when Stephen Baster sent him straight to the front.

He set up a strong tempo and just when it looked as if he would be swamped, the five-year-old kept going to the line to dent the Cup dreams of connections of Vengeur Masque (Monsun), who finished a short neck second, and Taranaki stayer Pentathlon (NZ) (Pentire), who was another short head away third after briefly looking the winner close to home.

"It's so exciting," Waterhouse said. "He will go to the Cup. That's been the plan all along."

Waterhouse, who now trains in partnership with Adrian Bott, won the 3200 metre Group One Cup four years ago with the imported Fiorente (Monsun) but Cismontane is a throwback to the colonial breed, being by shuttle stallion High Chaparral out of Viviane (NZ) (Volksraad).

Racing Victoria's chief handicapper Greg Carpenter declined to penalise Cismontane for Tuesday's Cup, a race Stephen Baster thought was a long way off earlier this year.

"If you asked me six months ago I would have said he is flat out winning a midweek," the jockey said.

"He's just improved out of sight and the team have done an amazing job with him – I couldn't have dreamt to have seen him here today."

Bott said he was concerned Cismontane would weaken in the straight but added the veteran of nineteen starts was just starting to find his best form.

"He's incredible. I thought he was gone on numerous occasions throughout the straight but he kept digging in and kept fighting and was very strong late," the co-trainer said.

"It probably sounds ridiculous to say this but he's only just learning what it's all about now – he's just starting to put it together at the right time."

New Zealand trainer John Wheeler is resigned to missing the Cup with Pentathlon, who has been established as the $5 favourite for the Group Three New Zealand Cup at Riccarton in a fortnight's time.

Cismontane defies his opposition and races into a shot at Tuesday's Melbourne Cup with a front-running stayer's performance in yesterday's Lexus Handicap. Expat-Kiwi trainer Mike Moroney's imported galloper Vengeur Masque nudges out John Wheeler's Pentathlon in the minor-placings fight.

MAYGROVE HEADLINES THE GOOD NEWS

Congratulations quickly turned to commiserations yesterday for Murray Baker and Andrew Forsman.

The Cambridge trainers first presented the future black-type prospect Deals In Heels to win the Quickcount Handicap at Tauranga before the gallant grey stayer Maygrove (Authorized) was victorious in the Listed Ricoh Feilding Gold Cup at Awapuni.

Unfortunately, news then broke from Flemington that their stablemate Jon Snow (NZ) (Iffraaj) is out of Tuesday's Group One Melbourne Cup after a Racing Victoria veterinary examination found him to be lame in his near foreleg.

"He's got a very shallow foot in his near fore but he worked brilliantly this morning and Stephen Baster said he felt great and he's been the same throughout his career," Baker said. "It doesn't worry him when he's warmed up.

"They said he's two-out-of-five lame and there's not much you can do about it. He's working well and racing well so there's not much wrong with him in my opinion."

Training partner Forsman said he felt for the connections of Jon Snow.

"It's been an up and down sort of day to say the least. It's just one of those things and I'm more disappointed for the owners of Jon Snow than anything else."

With a gutsy effort under 59kg in yesterday's Feilding Gold Cup at Awapuni, Maygrove holds off Alinko Prince to land the eighth win of his career and top the $400,000 mark in stakes.

Weather With You (Teofilo) wasn't able to turn the stable's Australian fortunes around either when he was unplaced in the Group One Victoria Derby.

However, positive news on the domestic front for the stable will see Deals In Heels head toward the Group Two NRM Auckland Thoroughbred Breeders' Stakes at Pukekohe on November 25 while plans have yet to be made for Maygrove.

"It's his first win for over twelve months and he's carried 59kg," Forsman said.

"We decided to miss the New Zealand Cup carnival with him this year and we'll keep him ticking over and happy and look at the options."

Dual Group Two winner Maygrove settled within a few lengths of the leaders before rider Johnathan Parkes made his move across the top.

"With the weight he had to get rolling and it was a ten out of ten ride," Forsman said. "It was a gutsy effort."

Maygrove held a strong gallop to the post to give the runner-up Alinko Prince (NZ) (Alamosa) five kilos and a beating with Snow Secret (NZ) (Sakhee's Secret) coming from the back for third.

COUPLAND CALLING SHADOWS CAST

Alysha Collett allows Shadows Cast to coast over the final few metres as he easily disposes of a handy field of sprinters in yesterday's Redcraze Bowl.

Shadows Cast (NZ) (Per Incanto) will head to Riccarton at the top of his game following a dominant performance to beat the open class sprinters on his home track yesterday, the five-year-old booking his trip to the New Zealand Cup carnival with victory in the Courtesy Ford Redcraze Bowl.

"He'll go down for the Coupland's Bakeries Mile after that," said Awapuni trainer Mark Oulaghan, who has previously enjoyed Group success on the flat and in prestige jumping wins on the South Island's premier course.

Shadows Cast is now a $14 chance for the Group Two Coupland's Bakeries

Mile to be run on November 15.

The gelding, who is raced by Ron Cunningham, was making the second appearance of his current campaign yesterday after finishing a first-up fifth at Hawke's Bay in the Group Three Spring Sprint.

As opposed to his last preparation, Shadows Cast made only one appearance at that carnival.

"We took him to Hastings last year but after three runs there he came to the end of it," Oulaghan said.

"We've kept him a little bit fresher this time and he's fit and healthy."

Shadows Cast travelled comfortably near the pace and rider Alysha Collett brought him with a well-timed run in the straight for a comfortable victory.

In blinkers for the first time, Beefeater (NZ) (Alamosa) fought on gamely for second after making the running and he remains in the Coupland's Bakeries Mile mix at $26.

DEALS IN HEELS HAS PUKEKOHE TARGET

The powerful training partnership of Murray Baker and Andrew Forsman have significantly strengthened their hand for an upcoming Group Two feature.

Their Cambridge stable has the exciting Francaletta (High Chaparral) aimed at the 1400 metre NRM Auckland Thoroughbred Breeders' Stakes at Pukekohe on November 25 and another gifted mare in Deals In Heels (NZ) (Iffraaj) is now almost certain to join her, the latter pressing her claims for a shot at black type when making a successful open class debut at yesterday's Tauranga meeting in the Quickcount Handicap.

"She's only got one or two more runs in this preparation so we'd like to have a crack at a stakes race," Forsman said.

"When we saw that there was a bit of rain in the forecast for Tauranga we started to think it might be a nice option for Deals In Heels."

Francaletta, a last-start winner of the Group Three Taranaki Breeders' Stakes, had also been under consideration for the race before her conditioners decided she will go to Pukekohe without another run.

The mare has won six of her eight starts and suffered the first defeat of her career when unplaced in last year's Breeders' Stakes at Pukekohe at just her fifth appearance.

Deals In Heels, who has won five of her seven outings, bounced out of the gates yesterday and Matt Cameron sat her on the leader's quarters.

They had a fight on their hands in the straight with the gallant pacemaker Galaxy Miss (NZ) (Tavistock) before gaining a long neck decision. Splurge (NZ) (Savabeel) got going late to take third money off Neala (NZ) (Mastercraftsman), who did well after missing the jump.

Galaxy Miss gave her all the opposition she wanted but Deals In Heels (#5) was able to make her open class debut a winning one at yesterday's Tauranga meeting.

SERAPHIM DOES HER MOTHER PROUD

Memories of the former champion stayer Ethereal (NZ) (Rhythm) were rekindled at Awapuni by her dashing daughter Seraphim (NZ) (Rip Van Winkle).

Sixteen years ago the mighty mare was the toast of Australasia after she triumphed in the Group One Melbourne Cup off the back of her Group One Caulfield Cup success.

While Seraphim won't reach such exalted heights, the five-year-old showed a taste of the family talent with a powerful performance to run away with yesterday's Rural Fuel Handicap.

Trained by Steven Ramsay and Julia Ritchie for Sir Peter Vela, she took her record to two wins and six placings from eleven appearances.

"It's pretty special to win today and she'll go over a bit more ground as well," Ramsay said. "We'll be looking to get some black type with her for Sir Peter."

Seraphim was tucked in behind the leading division by rider Danielle Johnson, who was then able to angle into the clear at the top of the straight.

When she asked for a serious effort, it was immediately forthcoming and Seraphim strode to the front 200 metres from home and powered away to win by three-and-a-half lengths.

The biggest winning margin of the day at Awapuni belonged to Ethereal's daughter Seraphim, seen here scooting away from her Rating 65 rivals by a widening 3½ lengths.

"Danielle gave her a gun ride and when she relaxes and gets into her rhythm she can really ping off good sectionals," Ramsay said.

The three-year-old Dance For Money (NZ) (Showcasing) turned in an encouraging performance to finish runner-up ahead of The Cossack (NZ) (Mastercraftsman), who pressed on to lead after initially sitting three wide and his effort was also commendable.

THINK GLOBALLY – THINK SOUTHLAND

Shaune Ritchie's end of holiday blues were quickly overcome at Tauranga yesterday when the diminutive Global Thinking (So You Think) stood tall at the expense of her fellow three-year-olds, the Cambridge horseman returning from a family vacation in Samoa late on Friday night and the filly presenting him with a tidy welcome home present when winning the Gartshore 1200.

"We elected to ride her cold today," Ritchie said. "We've probably been riding her upside down and closer to the pace when chasing Prom Queen and she's not in her grade."

Global Thinking was subsequently pulled out of the upcoming Group One New Zealand Bloodstock One Thousand Guineas at Riccarton but she's still in line for a trip to the South Island.

"I see her as a filly that might be really suited to the Dunedin, Gore and Southland Guineas after Christmas," Ritchie said. "It looks the perfect scenario for her; I'd expect her to be very competitive in those sorts of races."

"The travel wouldn't worry her, she's got a sweetheart of a nature and, while she's small, she tries very hard."

"She's quite well bred and they're only three once so some black type would serve her very well for later on."

Out of a General Nediym mare, Global Thinking settled at the back of the small field at Tauranga before finishing generously under rider Mark Du Plessis to claim the second win of her eight-start career.

"We got a lovely run and got the last dash at them," he said.

Global Thinking nabbed The Great Southern (NZ) (Jimmy Choux) on the line to score by a nose with the pacemaker Bombard (NZ) (Dalghar) three lengths back in third.

The favourite Power Dream (NZ) (Power) raced outside the leader but had little to offer in the run to the post and beat only one home.

FOURTH WIN WHEN DREAM DIGS DEEP

Dream Comes True holds onto his lead at Kranji on Friday night.

Dream Comes True (NZ) (Alamosa) showed he has really turned the corner since moving to trainer Daniel Meagher's yard after he notched his third win in five starts for the Australian at Kranji on Friday night.

Taking up the running from his low draw in the $560,000 Benchmark 67 over 1100 metres, the four-year-old travelled well within his own steam under Meagher's apprentice jockey Chin Chee Seng before going for broke on straightening.

The swoopers were spread across the track with Grey Falcon (NZ) (Align), favourite Siam Sapphire (NZ) (Showcasing) and Lucky Stride (Giant's Causeway), sneaking up along the rails, shaping up as the most likely to catch the leader.

But Dream Comes True kept digging to stave off the stinging challenge from Lucky Stride and prevail by half a length at the wire. Siam Sapphire ran third another 1¼ lengths away.

Meagher, who is enjoying a fine season, with 28 winners to this point, heaped praise on both horse and rider.

"It was a gutsy win from the horse and a great ride from CS," said the young conditioner.

"This horse has had a lot of issues and the key to him is to keep him fresh and space his runs. I'm very glad to see him win three out of five for me and I hope to just keep him sound and happy.

"CS is riding with great confidence at the moment and I will keep putting him on this type of horse that suits him."

With his fourth win from ten starts, Dream Comes True brought his stakes earnings past the $5130,000 mark.
