SAVVY COUP PRIMED FOR MATRIARCH

Savvy Coup will tackle the Gr.2 Matriarch Stakes at Flemington on Saturday

The occasion surrounding the Gr.1 Cox Plate (2040m) with glamour mare Winx (Street Cry) got too much for Kiwi galloper Savvy Coup (NZ) (Savabeel) according to her connections, but they believe she is primed to contest her major Melbourne target on Saturday, the Gr.2 Matriarch Stakes (2000m) at Flemington.

The Kiwi mare pulled hard throughout the Moonee Valley feature a fortnight ago and Michael Pitman, who trains the mare in partnership with his son Matthew, was happy enough with the run despite the circumstances.

"She just lost the plot (in the Cox Plate)," he said. "She was quiet and very settled out the back, but as soon as she got into the parade ring she just lost it. She pulled hard in the prelim, she got bumped a couple of times by Winx and she just over-raced and ran herself into the ground really.

"She normally just settles out the back and relaxes up. She gets keen, but Michael McNab and Chris Johnson have ridden her most of the time and they have never said it has been an issue, but the other day she just got right up on the steel behind the pace and I thought it was an outstanding run to finish as close as she did."

Pitman is happy with the way his four-year-old mare has pulled up after the Cox Plate and said she has been working well heading into Saturday's contest.

"We think she has improved since the Cox Plate, which was always going to be the case because I've quite openly stated that the Cox Plate wasn't her grand finale, it just happened that it was a suitable race to use to lead into the Matriarch," Pitman said.

"She worked really good on Tuesday and she's come through the race really well."

Savvy Coup has drawn the outside barrier in the 15-horse field, but that poses no concern for Pitman who is confident with the mare who is a $7.50 equal second-favourite for the race with TAB bookmakers.

"I'd rather draw there than the inside because Flemington has had plenty of racing on it and the fence might be a bit off I would imagine. It has had three days of racing on it already this week," Pitman said.

"She has drawn wide plenty of times, she drew wide in the Oaks and the Livamol and Chris (Johnson, jockey) will work it out.

"I've been in Australia enough times, I've won 20-odd races there, to know that if you're in the market you're a chance.

"She was a 60-1 shot in the Cox Plate and ran accordingly, but this week she is second favourite in the Matriarch."

Although Pitman, who is battling bowel cancer, was able to make it to Melbourne for the Cox Plate, he won't be on-course at Flemington on Saturday as he is currently in hospital after complications relating to his illness.

"I'm currently in hospital and I'm going to be here possibly for another week," he said. "I've got a problem with what they call a collection area in the pelvis, which is getting treated twice a day with antibiotics."

His stay in hospital will also mean that he will be unable to attend races on his home track at Riccarton on Saturday, where his stable will line-up 20 runners, including three in the Listed Yesberg Insurance Services Pegasus Stakes Handicap (1000m).

The Pitman stable holds a strong hand in the race with last-start winner Morse Code (NZ) (Pins) and stakes-placed gelding Mr Typhon (Redoute's Choice), but Pitman has labelled four-year-old entire Sensei (Dream Ahead) as his best chance.

"If it was a dry track I would expect Sensei to win it," he said. "He's been aimed at this race this prep and he'll probably only have one run between Saturday and the Telegraph.

"But if it comes up wet or the track is over irrigated like it was last-start he'll probably struggle. He wants a genuine firm track. I just hope we get a genuine summer track for the summer horses."

VETERAN TRAINER IN SEARCH OF GUINEAS BREAKTHROUGH

Veteran trainer Frank Ritchie is looking to land his first Gr.1 New Zealand 2000 Guineas (1600m) with lightly-raced gelding Dawn Patrol (NZ) (Dawn Approach), who tackles the Al Basti Equiworld sponsored feature at Riccarton on Saturday.

The 74-year-old trainer believes Dawn Patrol, unbeaten in two starts, provides him with his best opportunity to win the three-year-old classic since the great Bonecrusher (NZ) (Pag Asa) finished third off an interrupted preparation in 1985.

"He worked over 1400m on Saturday morning at Cambridge on the course proper and I was very happy with his work," Ritchie said.

"It was a good solid hit-out.

"On Tuesday he had a nice, quiet piece of work and he was due to fly out in the early hours of Wednesday morning, but that was aborted due to fog in Christchurch, so he was delayed by 24 hours."

Ritchie said the Guineas was not initially a target for the son of Dawn Approach, but improved racing manners has given him the confidence that Dawn Patrol can be a factor.

"He's eligible for the Karaka Million and that was always his target in the beginning," he said.

"After he won a trial, I thought it would be hard to get him ready in time for the Guineas.

"He's an aggressive horse and he likes to get on with his work. I don't have to work him in company very often, because he does it himself.

"His ringcraft is not as good as I would like, but he is getting better, he is conditioned-up and it is a half million-dollar race."

Dawn Patrol has won both of his raceday starts at Matamata and trialed well when third at Te Aroha since his most recent victory on October 13.

"I didn't want to run in the Sarten as it was only eight days after his last win. I didn't want to back him up. Physically he recovers immediately as he is a pretty strong horse, but mentally he takes a day or two.

"I was quite delighted with his trial. Passing Shot and Stratocaster were in it and they had both won sprint races at their previous runs. He just settled beautifully, and he went to the line under a hold and only half a length from those two sprinters."

Jason Waddell will take the reins on Saturday, where Dawn Patrol has drawn barrier eight, and Ritchie said he didn't need to give instructions to the leading hoop.

"Jason Waddell is right up there with the best. One of his great attributes is his ability to read a race and he studies it. He has great judgement on a horse and knows what the opposition is doing. He is just a natural horseman."

Ritchie would dearly love to win the race for owner Rex Jensen, who has been a client of the stable for more than 40 years and for whom he prepared Winning Wave (NZ) (Crested Wave) to win the 1997 Gr.1 Thorndon Mile (1600m).

"He's a huge enthusiast who just loves his racing and he selected this horse because he wanted a yearling by Dawn Approach. He had seen Dawn Approach race in England," Ritchie said.

"It would give me great joy to win him a major race. Much more joy than the stakes or anything. You can't buy how he'd feel if he won."

The trainer also said there had been an "astounding offer" from overseas interests to purchase the horse after his second win which had been turned down.

Ritchie has a team of around 15 horses in work, with five of them owned by Hong Kong connections and earmarked to do their future racing in that jurisdiction if deemed good enough.

The experienced horseman has no plans of retiring anytime soon and said he still loves the job and the industry.

"I like to keep fit and I am fortunate enough to have a job that helps me do that and I still enjoy it. As long as I've got clients who are willing to stick around it's good."

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Chosen One (NZ) (Savabeel)

Dennis brothers in search of another Guineas

The Dennis brothers have stepped into new territory in their bid to complete the double in the Gr.1 three-year-old classics at Riccarton on Saturday.

Tony, Joe, Ray and Martin Dennis, recipients of the 2016 Outstanding Contribution to New Zealand Racing Award, won the 2002 Gr.1 New Zealand 1000 Guineas (1600m) as owners and breeders with The Jewel (NZ) (O'Reilly) and this weekend they will be looking to add the Gr.1 Al Basti Equiworld Dubai New Zealand 2000 Guineas (1600m) to their trophy cabinet with the unbeaten The Chosen One (NZ) (Savabeel), a grandson of The Jewel.

This time, however, there is a bigger group racing The Chosen One, a son of Savabeel and the successful Flying Spur mare The Glitzy One, who won eight races from 1400m to 2500m. Full story here

Our Libretto (NZ) (O'Reilly)

Unbeaten Aussie record on the line

Former Tony Pike charge Our Libretto (NZ) (O'Reilly) will face her toughest test to date as she attempts to keep her unbeaten Australian record intact in Saturday's Gr.2 Matriarch Stakes (2000m) at Flemington.

Trainer Grahame Begg has guided Our Libretto through a campaign that began with a maiden win at Sandown in July and included a last-gasp win in the A$100,000 Pinker Pinker Classic (2040m) at Cranbourne last time out.

"She's done a great job," Begg said.

"To win her maiden in the first week of July and to be on the big stage at Flemington on the last day of the meeting, she has done a remarkable job."

Our Libretto overcame the tighter Cranbourne circuit to post her fourth straight win in the Pinker Pinker Classic. However, Begg said the O'Reilly mare would be better suited at Flemington where she won two starts back.

"She's done everything we've asked her and that's her greatest challenge so far on a racetrack, going to a Group Two from a quality handicap.

"Flemington will suit her greatly, so we'll see what happens."

Bahana (NZ) (Elusive City)

Kiwi-breeds chasing gold in Singapore

There will be a six-strong kiwi-bred contingent contesting Sunday's S$1.35 million Singapore Gold Cup which will be run over the shorter distance of 2000m this year.

Ex-pat New Zealand trainer Stephen Gray has two runners sourced from New Zealand and they have drawn at opposite ends of the barriers.

Sky Rocket (NZ) (Darci Brahma) has drawn gate five while stablemate Bahana (NZ) (Elusive City) who won the event in 2016, has drawn the widest of Gray's four runners and will jump from barrier 17.

"Sky Rocket has got a good draw as he can go wherever he wants from there," Gray said.

"As for Bahana, he can be ridden forward or back, it doesn't matter. In any case, I'm just happy to have four horses in the Gold Cup, it's fantastic."

Lee Freedman was happy with the allocation of gate nine for Mr Clint (NZ) (Power), who won the Singapore Guineas (1600m) earlier this year.

"It's a nice gate for Mr Clint. He will go forward as there aren't too many horses (with speed) on his inside," Freedman said.

The Triple Crown Series will remain unclaimed after Debt Collector (NZ) (Thorn Park) was withdrawn from Sunday's marquee event. The Cliff Brown-trained six-year-old was touted as a hot chance to rewrite history after he claimed the first two legs, the Raffles Cup (1600m) and Queen Elizabeth II Cup (1800m).

Savacool (NZ) (Savabeel)

Savabeel strikes again at Flemington

The Chris Waller-trained Savacool (NZ) gave her sire Savabeel his third win at this year's Melbourne Cup carnival when winning the Twitter Trophy (1800m) at Flemington on Thursday.

The Waikato Stud stallion also sired Shillelagh (NZ) to win the Gr.1 Empire Rose Stakes (1600m) on Derby Day, while Kaonic (NZ) took out the Listed Furphy Plate (1800m) on Cup Day.

Waller trained all three runners and was pleased with the result, having chosen to bring Savacool down to Melbourne from his Sydney base less than a month ago.

"We just pick a few horses out, and she was one of them, about two to three weeks ago that can fly the flag down here," Waller said.

"Whether you are a trainer, owner or jockey you want to have some representation down here. We've picked a pretty good one there and everything worked out well.

NEWS IN BRIEF

"She was a bit further back than what I hoped for, but Kerrin (McEvoy, jockey) was cool and he got to work on her early in the straight and that's Flemington, you can finish off very well."

Savacool was purchased by her trainer out of Waikato Stud's 2016 New Zealand Bloodstock Premier Yearling Sale draft for NZ$220,000.

Saint Emilion (NZ) (Mastercraftsman)

Saint Emilion salutes at Ellerslie

Rugged front-runner Saint Emilion (NZ) (Mastercraftsman) once again showed his penchant for the Ellerslie track when he led all the way to win the Gr.3 OMF Stakes (2000m) on Tuesday.

Under a vigorous ride from Jonathan Riddell, Saint Emilion kicked back after being clearly headed in the home straight to defeat his fast-finishing stablemate Lizzie L'Amour (NZ) (Zabeel), who snatched second from Hello It's Me (NZ) (Darci Brahma).

The Murray Baker and Andrew Forsman-trained seven-year-old made it win number fifteen from 41 career starts, with six of those victories coming at the venue. Amongst that Ellerslie winning tally is last season's Gr.1 New Zealand Stakes (2000m) while it was also his second win in Tuesday's event after taking in out in 2016. Full story here

Lady looks a proper horse

A Proper Lady (I Am Invincible) broke her maiden when successful in the City 1200 at Avondale on Wednesday.

The Brendan and Jo Lindsay-owned filly was having her third start off the back of a runner-up finish at Tauranga last month.

"She's just taken a little bit to learn, her first start she over raced and her second start she led again which wasn't ideal, but we drew awkwardly," trainer Lance Noble said.

"Today we were able to get her in behind

A Proper Lady (I Am Invincible)

and it was nice to see her win one, she still looks a bit green up the straight, so she still has a bit to learn.

"I think she will keep developing nicely, it might not be this prep, it might be next prep but it is good to get that win under her belt."

Noble was also pleased with the debut performance of stablemate Dance Card (NZ) (Savabeel), also owned by the Lindsays, who finished on strongly for fourth.

"She is a good staying filly to make ground like that from last and it was really pleasing. When we get her up to a mile I think she will be something to look forward to," Noble said.

Mongolian Marshal (NZ) (High Chaparral)

Promising galloper makes emphatic open class debut

Not content with taking out the feature event on the day at Ellerslie with Saint Emilion (NZ) (Mastercraftsman) in the Gr.3 OMF Stakes (2000m), the Murray Baker & Andrew Forsman team were at it again just two races later with progressive galloper Mongolian Marshal (NZ) (High Chaparral).

The High Chaparral gelding was having his first start in open-grade company when he delivered in fine style to take out the Carbine Club Trophy (1600m).

Handled to perfection by regular pilot

Matt Cameron, Mongolian Marshal dashed away from his rivals with a powerful home straight sprint after travelling easily in midfield throughout the contest. Full story here

Corey Campbell

Apprentice stars at Wingatui

Local apprentice rider Corey Campbell was the star of the show at Wingatui on Tuesday where he bagged four winners and a pair of minor placings from his nine rides on the day.

Based out of the Brian and Shane Anderton stable, Campbell made good use of his two-kilogram claim to boot home three winners for his mentors while also saluting on the Robert Dennis-trained Nightcap (NZ) (Roc De Cambes) earlier in the day.

Campbell produced a peach of a ride to take out the day's main event, the Speights Open 1400, on the Anderton trained Gallant Boy (NZ) (Gallant Guru). The eight-year-old, who was registering his ninth career victory, is the older brother of the Chris Waller-trained Patrick Erin (NZ) who missed a start in the Gr.1 Lexus Melbourne Cup (3200m) after being withdrawn from contention on the weekend due to issues with an elevated temperature.

The seventeen-year-old Campbell, who is in the second full-year of his apprenticeship, has made a flying start to the season with his tally of 18 wins currently placing him in the top ten on the National Jockey's premiership ladder.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Alysha Collett

Collett could face further surgery

A decision on whether Alysha Collett undergoes further surgery is impending as the Pukekohe jockey makes her recovery from a horrific fall in Singapore last month.

Collett has already had surgery to insert two rods and four screws in her lower back to mend a fractured lower vertebra suffered in the fall at Kranji on October 14.

Specialists in Singapore opted to put her fractured heel in a cast but medical opinion in New Zealand could yet suggest Collett has surgery to have screws inserted in her heel bone to aid her recovery, her father Richard said this week.

"She's hobbling around here at home and she's happy to be home but her heel is probably going to take the most time of her recovery," he said.

"She's going to the specialist next Wednesday for her broken heel and they may look at inserting screws.

"She's had that operation on her back to stabilise that with rods and screws but specialists in Singapore didn't think she needed screws in her heel but it's sounding like specialists here think it will help."

Collett had ridden 11 winners during a planned six-month stint in Singapore that began in May.

She had initially needed a wheelchair to help her get around after her operation but was now back on her feet.

She is likely to be off the scene for at least five months.
