CHANCE TO DANCE TOO GOOD IN KARAKA CLASSIC

Chance To Dance in the tangerine and blue colours heads to the line to win on debut in New Zealand

Imported gelding Chance To Dance (Teofilo) made his raceday debut in New Zealand a winning one when he burst between runners to claim the Listed Haunui Farm Karaka Classic at Pukekohe.

The lightly raced eight-year-old was purchased by Fortuna Bloodstock's John Galvin out of the Lloyd Williams team shortly before running in the Sydney Cup earlier this year. Prepared by the Te Akau Racing team of Jamie Richards and Stephen Autridge, he finished a creditable fifth in the Group One feature before heading back to New Zealand for a winter break.

Sunday's 1600 metre contest was the gelding's first run in a new campaign and he displayed plenty of dash in the hands of Opie Bosson to settle in a mid-field position behind the solid pace set by the free-going Admiral (NZ) (Align). Bosson bided his time before improving his position early in the straight to lay down a challenge to the pair of Brilliant Shine (NZ) (Guillotine) and Waipipi Lad (NZ) (Mr Nancho) who had set down to fight out the finish at that point.

Despite being squeezed between the pair in the closing stages, Chance To Dance drove strongly to the line to snatch victory in a manner that suggested there is more to come for the Teofilo gelding.

Galvin was quick to admit there had been confidence in the camp that the noted stayer could perform over a shorter distance in his first appearance in New Zealand.

“He has done it before in a much tougher venue than this which was in Australia in Melbourne,” he noted.

“He is a class horse who has been working with Gingernuts this week in trackwork and he hasn’t given an inch to him.

“He was vulnerable today with the weight he had under handicap conditions but he is a quality horse.”

A mouth-watering clash of the Te Akau stablemates is now a real prospect as Galvin outlined the immediate plans for the horse which include a shot at the Gr. 1 Livamol Classic in Hastings in a fortnight.

“The plan was always to bring him back to New Zealand and race in some of the spring features before having a look at a campaign in Australia,” he said.

“Jamie actually said to me the bad news was that we would be facing Gingernuts in the Livamol but I’m not sure why that’s bad news as we’re quite happy to face him.”

The victory was the eighth in a 29-start career for Chance To Dance who won five times in Europe before being sent to Australia after being purchased by the big-spending Williams as a possible Melbourne Cup runner.

TAVAGO HEADING TO JRA CUP AT MOONEE VALLEY

Hugh Bowman will ride last year's Australian Derby winner Tavago (NZ) (Tavistock) in the JRA Cup at Moonee Valley as the stayer continues his path to the Caulfield Cup.

Tavago pleased his co-trainer Trent Busuttin with his seventh in the Group One Makybe Diva Stakes (1600m) at Flemington in his first start since pulling up lame after the Group One BMW in Sydney during the autumn.

Busuttin, who trains in partnership with Natalie Young, said the five-year-old would run in Friday night's Group Three JRA Cup (2040m) rather than the Turnbull Stakes at Flemington the following weekend.

He said they thought he would be better suited to the Moonee Valley surface and would get in well under the Quality handicap conditions.

"Hugh Bowman will ride him," Busuttin said.

"I think he's a horse that wants his races spaced with not a lot of racing. At some stage he had to have a gap of two weeks between runs so I'd rather it be first-up to second-up and that will give him a good three-week break going into the Caulfield Cup, all going well.

"He's obviously got to run well (on Friday night) but we were rapt with his first-up run."

Tavago won the Group Three Sky High Stakes (2000m) second-up during the autumn.

Busuttin said he would like to get some cut out of the ground on Caulfield Cup day to give Tavago his best chance in the rich handicap next month.

Tavago is at $51 for the Caulfield Cup.

"If he gets a nice draw in the Caulfield Cup he'll perform well," Busuttin said.

GINGERNUTS ARMY ON THE MARCH TO HASTINGS

The familiar orange caps of the Gingernuts army are prominent during the victory ceremony for their pride and joy at Hastings on Saturday

The Akau Racing principal David Ellis has confirmed that Saturday's impressive Gr. 1 Windsor Park Plate winner Gingernuts (NZ) (Iffraaj) will return to Hastings in a fortnight to contest the Gr. 1 Livamol Classic.

Ellis made the announcement on TAB Trackside's Weigh In show on Sunday morning less than 24 hours after the Iffraaj four-year-old added a third victory at the highest level to his burgeoning career record.

"He's come through the race brilliantly and he will now go forward to the Livamol," said Ellis

"From there it will be on to the Caulfield Cup."

Based on scenes from the victory ceremony at Hastings on the weekend, race fans can expect a sea of orange caps to once again feature prominently amongst the on-course crowds at both venues as the self-styled Gingernuts Army prepares to back their pride and joy.

"There were about twenty five of us on course on Saturday but I expect that number to swell next time as there were quite a few missing for this one," explained syndicate member Blair Alexander.

"We were hopeful rather than confident he could win so a few people decided to wait before committing to being on course to support him so you can guarantee it will be a full house in a fortnight."

Alexander was one of the prime forces in getting the group together to race Ellis' $42,500 Ready To Run Sale purchase and admits it has been the ride of a lifetime to date for the 42 strong group.

"It's been an amazing journey so far and now we are so close to achieving one of the dreams we have had for the horse," he said.

“We turned down some very large offers for him with one of the main reasons being the desire to try and win a race like the Caulfield or Melbourne Cup which is what just about everyone who has ever owned a horse has dreamed of.

“To have that opportunity about to be realised is a little surreal and quite frankly I think most of us are far more nervous now than we were before a race like the New Zealand Derby last season.”

Alexander has also been overwhelmed by the support for Gingernuts from racing fans on both sides of the Tasman.

“The number of Facebook postings and request for information about the horse is unreal,” he said.

“I think he has as many or more people supporting him in Australia as they really seem to love him over there.

“The requests for our special orange caps is also growing so when he hits Hastings and then Caulfield you will definitely know the Gingernuts army is in town.”

NEWS IN BRIEF

Hong Kong departures hit Weir

While ace trainer Darren Weir’s spring stocks continue to the rise with the likes of Humidor (NZ) (Teofilo), Admire Deus (Admire Don) and Black Heart Bart (Blackfriars) chasing Group One targets over the coming weeks it hasn’t stopped the master trainer from rueing the departure of several horses from his stable.

Weir confirmed that local punters had seen the last of Group One winner Volatile Mix (NZ) (Pentire), as well as Rockstar Rebel (Rebel Raider), Sebfire (Sebring) and Shamport (Shamardal) who will be exported from Australia over the coming weeks to continue their racing careers in Hong Kong.

“They are four really nice horses for the stable and will be hard horses to replace,” Weir said.

“Obviously Volatile Mix won a Group One and Rockstar Rebel was Group One placed but the other two horses had a lot of ability as well.”

In 11 starts for Weir, Volatile Mix won three races from 1600m to 2500m, including the Gr. 1 South Australian Derby (2500m) under John Allen earlier this year.

NICHOLSON KEEN ON LIVAMOL CHANCES WITH NYMPH MONTE

A dashing display against some quality opposition at Hastings on the weekend has Opaki galloper Nymph Monte (NZ) (Tavistock) set to take his place in the Gr. 1 Livamol Classic at the venue next month.

The talented Tavistock gelding missed a start in the spring feature in 2016 before going on to perform with distinction at the New Zealand Cup carnival at Riccarton however this year trainer Grant Nicholson has his eyes firmly fixed on a single prize.

Having just the third run in his current campaign Nymph Monte blew his rivals away with a sharp burst of speed in the closing stages that carried him to a three-length victory in the day's open 2000 metre contest.

It was just the performance Nicholson was looking for as he prepares for a return to Hastings in a fortnight.

"He was impressive in that last bit with some improvement still in him," was his succinct summing up of what his charge had just achieved.

"The track was a concern but Rosie (Myers) got him out to the right part and he let down really nicely.

"He's strengthened again for this prep and that little bit of age on him has really helped."

Nicholson believes the six-year-old is ready to tackle the elite level under weight-for-age conditions and is looking forward to the challenge.

"The way he won today would suggest he has to be in with a chance

Impressive Hastings winner Nymph Monte will tackle the Gr. 1 Livamol Classic in a fortnight in the Livamol," he said.

"It's a different level and he will have to lift to it but I think he can.

"We tried last year and missed by one on the ballot so we will be there to have another go this year."

Rider Rosie Myers was also taken by the run after admitting she had learned a lesson when finishing fourth on the horse on the first day of the carnival.

"His run on the first day was super and I learned a little about him that day," she explained.

"He doesn't like being in tight quarters and didn't really let down but today I was able to get to the outside and he showed what a good turn of foot he has.

"He's been on the improve all the way and hopefully he can continue on with it."

The win saw TAB bookmakers shorten Nymph Monte's odds for the Livamol Classic to $12 with Gr. 1 Windsor Park Plate winner Gingernuts (NZ) (Iffraaj) remaining a warm favourite at $2.20 for the event which will be held at Hastings on October 7.

RAIL HUGGING RIDE JUST THE TICKET FOR MAYBE MIAMI

Local trainer Kevin Hughes had just one piece of advice for his apprentice Tanya Jonker when he legged her aboard his stable star Maybe Miami (NZ) (Iffraaj) at Riccarton on the weekend.

"I said to her to make use of the inside draw and don't leave the rail the whole way," he revealed after watching the pair lead all the way to score handsomely in the day's open 1200 metre contest.

Hughes, who prepares the Iffraaj five-year-old with wife Pam, was of the firm belief the inside rail was still the place to be despite indications in previous races that the middle of the track was providing superior footing on the Heavy 10 rated surface.

Jonker paid heed to the advice as she set a leisurely pace in front before sneaking a break on her rivals rounding the home bend. Under a hands and heels ride, Maybe Miami found plenty in the run home to comfortably hold out the challenge of Gr. 1 Telegraph winner Signify (NZ) (Perfectly Ready), who also went a beauty in the first start of a new campaign.

"The rail is still the shortest way home and earlier in the day it had been playing well," explained Hughes.

"I just thought if Tanya could get a cheap enough lead and get a break on them when they started to go wide he would be good enough to stay in front.

"He went a really cheeky race fresh up and had improved markedly from it so with Tanya's three kilogram claim he was always going to be pretty competitive.

"She rode him perfectly so full credit to her. Her riding has come on in leaps and bounds lately so I'm very proud of her."

Hughes has his sights set on the Gr. 2 Coupland's Bakeries Mile on the middle day of the New Cup Carnival at Riccarton for his charge who will be back at his favourite venue in a fortnight for a 1400 metre contest.

"He loves it at home and there are some nice races along the way as we get ready for the Coupland's Mile," he said.

"He can go around over 1400 metres in a fortnight in a race where we can claim and I think there is a similar race on offer three weeks after that.

"He will most likely be topweight in the Coupland's but he deserves a shot at it."

ROGERSON HOLDS HIGH OPINION OF DEBUT WINNER

Raceday debutant Masque (NZ) (Savabeel) lived up to his trainer's expectations when he delivered a winning return over 800 metres in the first race at Pukekohe today.

The trial winning Savabeel two-year-old showed plenty of ticker for rider Leith Innes as he shouldered his way through a narrow gap against the rail to claim the lead halfway down the long Pukekohe home straight. Despite knocking off a little at the post the colt had enough in hand to hold out the finish of race favourite Queen Of The Air (I Am Invincible), who chased him doggedly in the closing stages.

Co-trainer Graeme Rogerson, who prepares Masque with wife Debbie, was feeling bullish about his future prospects after success in the northern regions first juvenile event for the season.

"He had trialled enormously and we think he is the next Savabeel," he stated.

"We were going to go to Sydney with him but he's been working on wet tracks and it's pretty dry over there."

Rogerson had been confident of a win on debut after rider Leith Innes had been fulsome in his praise when combining with the colt for his first run at the Te Teko trials back in August.

"Leith rode him at the trials and said this is a Group horse," he advised.

"We will probably go to the Wellesley Stakes at Trentham and then on to the Karaka Million after that.

"He's the one we put a nomination in for the Golden Slipper and he's showed me as much as Savabeel at this stage."

Bred by Gary Chittick, Masque is the full brother of successful racemare Costume (NZ) who numbered the Gr. 1 Herbie Dyke Stakes and Gr. 1 Livamol Classic amongst her six career victories. He was a $200,000 purchase for Rogerson from the Waikato Stud draft during the premier session of the 2017 New Zealand Bloodstock Yearling Sale series.
